

JU NO KATA

(The Forms of Gentleness)

The following was taken from the book BORN FOR THE MAT - A Kodokan Kata Textbook for Women by Keiko Fukuda. Printed in 1973. Rev. April 1996.

EXPLANATION OF JU-NO-KATA

When I saw Ju no Kata for the first time as a novice of Judo, the actual performance of Ju no Kata was quite difficult to understand. Nage no Kata (Throwing Forms) or Katame no Kata (Grappling Forms) when performed are simply expressed and comprehensible to the layman because the movement of these forms is the actual expression of offensive and defensive fighting. However, in Ju no Kata, the movements are slow, and it is difficult for one to realize their true meaning. Nevertheless, one should not decide their likes, or dislikes prior to trying Ju no Kata, as it is the essence of Judo, and one's interest grows as one continues to practice.

Ju no Kata was included as one of the KODOKAN Kata in 1887. Unlike other Kata it has an unusual elegance. Men in the past did not practice Ju no Kata until they reached a reasonably high black belt rank, but now along with women can start the practice of Ju no Kata in the brown belt ranks. It is extremely beautiful when practiced by trained performers. What does this elegant Kata consist of? Simply, it is the way of offense and defense expressed by the principles of Judo.

1. Kata, in general, consists mainly of offensive and defensive methods; therefore, they require lots of muscle contraction exercises, as these unilateral movements are unsuitable for developing the well-balanced body, it is necessary to add extensor muscle exercises.
2. Customarily, Kata requires a specific place and uniform in order to practice. But Ju no Kata can be practiced anywhere without regard to uniform.
3. This Kata avoids throwing; therefore anyone may practice, regardless of age, in accordance with his or her physical condition.
4. Because of the slow movement, it expresses the principle of Judo simply and logically in advancing and retreating movements, specific body movements, and the use of strength in offensive and defensive movement.

As mentioned above, one will learn the way of offense and defense by practicing this Kata faithfully. The principle of Judo is to adopt the attacker's movement or strength and use it against them, by doing so; one will take the other by surprise. After one learns the advance, retreat, and body movements in this Kata, they should then add speed in practice with body movement, since it can be very useful in actual self-defense.

Ju no Kata technique demonstrates how one should use the principle of Judo in relation to throwing techniques in Randori. When Tori lifts Uke, he or she saves their strength at the moment of throwing and lets Uke stretch thoroughly in the demonstration of hip techniques. This shows the principle in contest; also it is beneficial for physical training. One can clearly see that Ju no Kata practice is highly useful in Randori.

On the other hand, by using muscles not generally used in randori one will exercise the extensor muscles by utilizing the other's strength and thus will develop a well-balanced, healthy body by practicing diligently. In addition, one will attain a refined and prompt movement and a self-composed manner in everyday life.

When one begins the studying of Ju no Kata, one will continue to practice only the, movements, but when the pair can perform offensive and defensive movements accurately, without interval, it is the climax of beauty. One must practice at least a thousand times to reach this point.

«Note»

A. Tori and Uke must be decided prior to starting practice. Uke is the attacker and the technique begins with her attack. Tori is the defender and must always control Uke at the finish of each technique.

B. The center of the area in which the pair will perform should be the center of the performance. Uke will stand on the left side facing the Shomen or Judges; Tori will stand on Uke's right. Tori takes the position first because they will be the one that takes initiative. Uke then will take their place with adequate space to start the attack.

C. One must study each movement of offense and defense accurately as prescribed. If one does not prepare for or understand the purpose of attack, they may miss the vital points and practice of this type will be meaningless. So one must make sure that their fingertips or fist are truly aimed at the prescribed vital points. Also, in Ju no Kata one learns the principle of offense and defense in slow movement. If one's Tai-Sabaki *(Advance and Retreat Body Movement) is insufficient, or her timing is off, one may be able to avoid the attack of the vital points, but not able to escape the attack entirely. By using sufficient Tai-Sabaki, she can unbalance and control the attacker with minimum effort according to the principle of Ju (Gentleness and Softness). In addition, the right hand and the right foot, left hand and left foot, are used simultaneously very often during the movements in this Kata.

D. One must practice each offensive and defensive movement with spirit. When the attacker tries to strike with their Tegatana (Hand Sword) on top of the receiver's head, they must keep their mental and physical strength until the attack is completed, with arms and fingers fully extended, and demonstrate meaningful attacking spirit even though the movements are slow.

E. One must manage timing in reciprocal Tai-Sabaki. It is very difficult to grasp the right timing because of the slow movement in this Kata, but if one's defensive timing is off, they cannot escape attack, or if they escape too quickly, even before the attacker's fist reaches the chin, it entirely eliminates the principle and will never happen in actual fighting. The pair must make an effort to move accurately and smoothly by the practice of correct timing. Also, the attacker should not change the rate of speed of the attacks throughout the kata.

F. This Kata is highly beneficial for physical training due to the continuous use of extensor muscles. If Tori lets Uke go at the time of controlling her to the rear, Uke will not be able to regain her balance and fall; therefore, whenever Uke is unbalanced and extended thoroughly by Tori, she will signal surrender by slapping side of her body with the hand which is not used. If both hands are controlled by Tori, the left foot steps (slides) back slightly to indicate the surrender. When Uke is lifted by Tori on her hip, she will signal surrender by tapping Tori's rear hip after she is stretched thoroughly by the use of her own strength and reaches an oblique vertical position on Tori. If Tori should twist her hip, she will be throwing Uke with Ukigoshi, instead, she stops the throw at a certain point and lets Uke exercise her extensor muscles. This is the physical training of Ju no Kata.

Complete understanding of technical points of Ju no Kata may be difficult from the above explanation alone. Therefore, I would recommend a study of Kata under a skilled instructor. If you are unable to find an instructor, you could observe positions of Uke and Tori, and actual speed of the movements, etc., by studying the Ju no Kata videotape produced by the Kodokan.

Names of Waza (Techniques)

There are three Kyo (Sets) of Ju no Kata. Each Kyo (Set) consists of five Waza making a total of fifteen Waza.

2. Kata-oshi (Shoulder Push)
3. Ryote-dori (Seizure of Both Hands)
4. Kata-mawashi (Shoulder Turn)
5. Ago-oshi (Jaw Thrusting)

2. Mune-oshi (Chest Push)
3. Tsuki-age (Uppercut)
4. Uchi-oroshi (Direct Head Strike)
5. Ryogan-tsuki (Both Eyes Poke)

Beginning Movements:

Facing the Shomen, Tori stands on the right and Uke on the left with a distance of 5.4 meters (18 feet) between them. Both Tori and Uke stand at attention and mentally prepare themselves for Ju no Kata. They make a standing bow (heels together, toes open) simultaneously to the Shomen. Next, Uke and Tori face each other and make a standing bow to each other. As soon as this is completed, both Uke and Tori take one large step toward each other starting on the left foot then right foot and assume Fundamental Natural Posture (FNP). Both, then walk quietly toward each other and stop at a distance of about six feet apart and assume FNP (exact distance depends on uke and tori's size) and assume FNP. At this position, Tori with correct posture prepares quietly for an attack from Uke. Uke also stands with correct posture and mentally prepares for the attack.

IKKYO (SET I)

Tsuki-dashi (Hand Thrusting)

Position: Uke and Tori face each other in FNP with a distance of approximately 6 feet between them (distance depends on the size of uke and tori).

Movements: Uke advances forward with three Tsugiashi (following step) movements toward Tori, attempting to thrust her right fingers between Tori's eyes.

* Uke does this by stretching her right arm forward with five fingers extended together with the palm facing left (hand sword). Uke raises their hand slowly with an outstretched arm to a height slightly lower than Tori's belt (obi) as she takes a Tsugiashi step forward with her right foot.

The second Tsugiashi follows by raising the same hand from the belt height to Tori's chest height; and with the third Tsugiashi, Uke attempts to thrust her right fingertips between Tori's eyes.

At the instant Uke's fingertips are about to reach between Tori's eyes, Tori turns her head to the right, and escapes by pulling her right foot back while turning her body 90° to her right. At the same time, she grasps Uke's right wrist in a normal grip (the thumb on Uke's little finger edge and the fingers on the thumb edge) with her right hand. ("Four fingers on top")

Then Tori, with her left hand (thumb on top), grasps Uke's left wrist. She then raises her right hand to a high slanted position, pulling both of Uke's arms until they are brought into a straight diagonal line. Tori's chest and abdomen and Uke's back come into close contact.

Tori then arches her back pulling her arms slightly backwards and thus immobilizes Uke straight backwards. At this time, both Tori and Uke's feet are approximately one foot apart. With this last movement, Uke's chest should be expanded sufficiently.

Tori shifts her weight to her left foot. She then slides her right foot backwards and to the right. Thus turning her body to the right. Just as Tori starts to place her right foot where her left foot previously was, Uke grabs both Tori's wrists (both thumbs on top). At this time, both Uke and Tori have completed a 180° turn with Uke's chest and abdomen and Tori's back coming into close contact, and both are facing in the opposite direction of the Shomen.

Uke raises her left arm to a high slanted position and her right arm to a low slanted position, pulling Tori's arms until they are brought into a straight diagonal line. Uke then arches her back pulling Tori slightly backwards and, thus, immobilizes Tori straight backwards. With this movement Tori's chest should be well expanded.

Her left foot slides on the mat to the front and to the right where her right foot previously was and thus turns her body to the right. At the same time as Tori, Uke shifts her weight to her right foot. She then slides her left foot backwards and to the left while turning her body to the left. Just as Uke starts to place her left foot where her right foot previously was, Tori grabs both Uke’s wrists (both thumbs on top).

Tori raises her right arm to a high slanted position and left arm to a low slanted position pulling Uke’s arms until they are brought into a straight diagonal line. Tori then uses the same method for unbalancing Uke backwards.

* Uke tries to escape from this second attack (Uke shouldn’t express her escape movement too obviously), but Tori doesn’t allow this; she immediately presses Uke’s left arm close to her side while simultaneously raising Uke’s right arm straight up toward Uke’s head. (Both Uke and Tori are still in an arched back position).

«Note» 1. Tsugiashi: Sliding step with the leading foot in front position at all time. The toes of the following foot should be within approximately 4 inches of the front heel.

2. When one is unbalanced backwards by her opponent and is pivoting her body in an attempt to escape, if one’s thumb and index finger are separated, it makes it easier to grasp the opponent’s wrist smoothly during the pivoting.

3. When shifting from the first Tsugiashi to the second and from the second to the third, caution should be taken by Uke to keep the right arm straight, maintaining a feeling of strength without unnecessary up & down movement while keeping the body straight. Uke’s right fingertips as Uke takes the third Tsugiashi should be thrusting at Tori’s “Uto” (between the eyes).

Kata-oshi (Shoulder Push)

Uke takes an attitude of attacking, slowly gathering strength, stretching the fingers of her right hand, and bending her elbow slowly with her palm facing forward. Uke brings her hand upwards along the right side of her chest with the fingers pointing upward. Uke continues the motion until she reaches shoulder height, pulling back her elbow slightly.

Keeping this feeling of strength in the same arm, Uke gently places her right hand on Tori's right shoulder. Uke then pushes Tori forward gently but firmly. Uke does not look at Tori's shoulder as she initiates the push, nor does she bend over until it is time to follow Tori.

* Tori utilizes Uke's strength and, keeping her legs straight, bends her upper body forward. Uke, as she continues to push with her right hand on the back of Tori's shoulder, also bends her upper body forward, following Tori. When Tori's body is deeply bent forward, Uke's right hand slips down off Tori's shoulder as she continues to push. Tori* begins to take small steps backwards in a continuous motion beginning with her right foot and following the strength of Uke's push, grasps Uke's right palm (thumb on Uke's palm and fingers outside), and continues to take a few small steps backwards. Tori, keeping her balance, tries to gain control. Uke realizing the situation turns her body and right toes to the right (pivoting on the right heel), as soon as Tori grasps Uke's right hand and starts to step backwards. Uke, at the same time as dropping her body low, starts to aim at Tori's "Uto" from underneath her own right arm (striking from the belt) as Tori steps back behind her. Uke has her left arm with elbow bent and her left hand close to her left hip (fingers together and palm up).

* When Uke's body makes a complete turn with her back facing Tori, Tori maintaining FNP and stepping back, pulls Uke's arms up and hyper extends them at a 45° angle so that she completely immobilizes and unbalances Uke to her rear. Uke* will pull the left foot back slightly to indicate submission.

Ryote-dori (Seizure of Both Hands)

Position: Tori walks around Uke's right side and comes to face Uke at approximately one foot in distance. Tori's right side and Uke's left side are now facing the Shomen. Both stand in FNP.

Movements: Uke grasps Tori's wrists with both hands and attempts to immobilize Tori. Instead, Tori counterattacks and tries to throw Uke with Makikomi Waza (technique).

Uke, bending her body forward very slightly, seizes Tori's wrist with both hands. Tori immediately pulls her hands back along the sides of her body, thus unbalancing Uke (uke raises heels slightly) to the direct front. She then moves her left foot diagonally behind her right foot in a half-step back and turns her body to the left, bending her left elbow at the same time and regripping Uke's right wrist from underneath with fingers outside and thumb inside.

* Tori then bends her knees deeply, dropping her body down (back is still erect) and brings her back and Uke's chest in even closer contact. Uke keeps her body straight and raises her heels while still standing in FNP, places her left palm on Tori's left hip. Tori gently bends her upper body forward, hoists Uke on her hips and then, straightening her knees, Uke's head drops forward and her lower body should gradually rise, (as soon as Uke's feet leave the mat, Uke gradually brings her legs and toes together), her legs straight.

* When Uke's body becomes a straight diagonal line, Tori, without releasing her strength from her right arm, brings her own arms gently to her chest. Uke then thoroughly stretches her body to a slight arch keeping her legs together and after retaining this position for a few seconds, gently pats Tori with her left hand giving the sign of submission. Tori gently lowers Uke's body in the sustained position; Uke keeps her body in a straight line with feet together and just before she touches the mat, Uke will move her feet apart in order to land in FNP.

(Note: Uke should not pull back in the armpit or shoulder but should follow Tori's movements using the principal of Ju. As Tori begins to lift Uke using Maki-komi form, Tori lifts without executing the throw so that her partner can exercise her extensor muscles as she stretches into a diagonal line.)

Kata-mawashi (Shoulder Turn)

Position: After Ryote-Dori is completed, Tori stands in the same position (left side to Shomen) in FNP. Uke stands behind Tori at about one foot in distance, also in FNP.

Movements: Uke, with both hands on Tori's shoulders, tries to attack her but Tori escapes and tries to throw Uke with Ippon-Seoi-Nage.

* Uke, unbalanced, raises her heels slightly. Here, Tori does not relax her strength, which has unbalanced Uke to the front. Tori places her right foot in front of Uke's right foot and her right arm under Uke's armpit (foot and arm move together). While turning to the left, Tori bends her knees and places her left foot in front of Uke's left foot. Tori, with her right arm, holds Uke's right arm from underneath and presses her right palm on Uke's right shoulder from above. Tori then brings her own right elbow to the front and holds Uke's right arm to her chest. Uke*, keeping her body straight with her heels raised up and standing with feet apart in FNP and places her left hand on Tori's left hip (fingers pointed down) and lightly hold Tori's left elbow in her right hand.

At this time, Tori, with her feet separated at a one-foot width, bends her knees thus lowering her body; her back comes in close contact with Uke's chest and abdomen and assumes the position of Ippon-Seoi-Nage.

* Tori then slowly bends her body deeply to the front, stretches both knees and hoists Uke up on her back. Uke, keeping her body straight, follows Tori's strength and gradually brings her legs together as she is lifted on Tori's back.

Uke, when thoroughly stretched in an upper slanted diagonal line, keeps the same position for a few seconds and then gently taps Tori's back with her left hand. Tori relaxes and gently lowers Uke down to the mat, Uke gradually moves her feet apart in order to land in FNP.

Note: Tori is lifting Uke in Ippon-Seoi-Nage, but there is no throw. Uke exercises her extensor muscles as she stretches on Tori's Back.

At this time, Uke stands with Tori's right side facing her. The distance is approximately six feet (depends on size of performers).

Movements: Uke advances forward with three Tsugiashi (See Set I-Tsuki-Dashi, Note 1) movements and gradually raising her right hand, tries to push and turn Tori's jaw from the right side.

Uke stretches her right arm and hand with her fingers straight and thumb-side upward, palm facing the left, and at the same time, advances towards Tori with the first Tsugiashi. She aims her outstretched straight arm and fingertips towards Tori's belt. With the second Tsugiashi, Uke aims her outstretched straight arm and fingertips towards Tori's chest. At third Tsugiashi Uke attempts to push and turn Tori's jaw to the left.

* Tori, straightening her body, steps backwards with her left foot, catches Uke's attacking left hand with her own left hand, grasps (thumb on palm), and pulls Uke's left hand in an up-slanted angle following the direction of the attack.. She then rotates Uke to the right in a big circle with her right hand and shifts her right foot to the right and assumes FNP. Uke automatically pivots on her left toes and moves her right foot to the right and turns her back to Tori. Tori* pulls and extends Uke's arms up and back at a diagonal, then lowers Uke's arms down bending the elbows to a flexed, palms upward position at neck level. Uke's head does not touch Tori's front.

* Tori then pins Uke's hands close to the back of Uke's neck, with palms upwards, thus pulling Uke backwards, unbalancing and immobilizing her. At this time, Uke's elbows are bent outwards, chest expanded, palms facing upwards and close to the neck. Her upper body is being pressed down from above and behind. Therefore, Uke is deeply arched backwards, and cannot escape. Uke* slides the left foot back slightly to indicate submission. Tori takes one step forward with her left, then right foot, returning herself to FNP. She releases Uke's arms and Uke lowers her arms down to the front with palms faced down. They are now both in FNP.

NIKKYO (SET II)

Kiri-oroshi (Direct Head Cut with Hand Sword)

Position: After completing Ago-Oshi, Tori is standing behind Uke with both of their right sides facing the Shomen. Both return to the center of the performance area. Uke turns around and stands facing Tori at a distance of two feet in FNP.

Movements: Uke with her right Tegatana (little finger edge of hand), attempts to strike the top of Tori's head and cut straight down.

Uke, preparing for an attack, from FNP, stretches her right hand fingers (fingers closed) and using her left foot as an axis, slides her right foot over the mat and makes a turn to the right (90°). As Uke is turning to the right, her hand turns outward (palm facing forward). Uke raises her right arm slowly out from the side, stretching high overhead from the right side.

When her fingertips are fully stretched up high, Uke with both feet turned left, twists her body to the left and at the same time turns her right palm so that her Tegatana (hand sword) faces toward Tori. Then gathering sufficient strength in the Tegatana, Uke slowly lowers the Tegatana down towards Tori's head and at the same time takes one step forward with the right foot. (When cutting straight down, be careful not to bend the elbow, keeping hips well balanced; slowly but strongly strike straight down.)

Ryokata-oshi (Pressing Down on Both Shoulders)

Movements: Uke placing both hands on Tori's shoulder from behind tries to attack Tori by pressing down.

Uke gathers her strength in her two arms to the tips of her fingers and with her fingers close together bends both elbows (palm facing Tori's back with fingers pointing upwards).

Uke slides both hands up close to the sides of her body, shoulder width apart and brings them up, passing by her ears, straight over her head (both hands and arms very straight).

Maintaining her strength, Uke brings both hands down slowly, elbows slightly bent, and gently presses down on Tori's shoulders with her hands.

* Tori, following Uke's pressure, draws her left foot diagonally back toward her right a half step and bends her knees. She drops her body down thus weakening Uke's downward press.

* Uke's downward pressure is thus weakened her right hand has slid to Tori's left shoulder, and Tori's turns to face Uke in a half-crouched position. At the same time, Tori grasps Uke's right wrist with her left hand (fingers upward, thumb on inside of wrist), from beneath. Tori steps back one step with her left foot and unbalances Uke in a forward position. Uke follows this movement and as soon as she takes one step forward with her right foot, Tori without releasing her strength which is unbalancing Uke forward, with her body still in a low position, makes another turn, by moving her right foot slightly in an arc to the left and pivoting to the left (turns both feet to the left).

As soon as her back faces Uke, with her right hand grasping Uke's right wrist (fingers upward, thumb on inside of wrist) then changes the grip of her left hand so that both Tori's hands facing each other (the left hand adjacent to the right) and immediately pulls Uke with both hands trying to unbalance her.

At this time, Uke steps forward with her right foot following Tori's pull and places her left palm on the middle of Tori's back (waist high, fingers pointed downwards). Tori, stretching her knees, gradually raises her body and with several small steps advances forward. (This movement of Tori's gradually unbalances Uke forward and leads to an over the shoulder throw).

Uke trying to keep her balance, pushes Tori's back with her left hand and following Tori's movement, advances with small steps. Both Uke and Tori, pushing and pulling, stand completely still, Tori pushed by Uke. Uke, also pulled and unbalanced by Tori tries to resist but unable to do anything further, stands on her toes and becomes unbalanced forward.

As both Uke and Tori's bodies stretch out straight both standing on their toes, they stop advancing at a position where they can just manage to retain their balance.

* Uke's* left hand still on Tori's back, slips as Tori swiftly twists her body to the left and steps back obliquely to the right with her right foot and pulls Uke's right hand towards the right, slanting upwards.

Naname-uchi (Nasion Strike)

Movements: Uke with her right Tegatana, attempts to strike Tori between the eyes.

Tori follows these movements, stepping forward with her right foot and releases her grip on Uke's right wrist. Then taking one step forward with her left foot, grasps Uke's left wrist with her left hand (palm down) and attempts to immobilize Uke to Uke's left front corner, slightly pulling Uke towards the same corner releasing her own right wrist from Uke's left hand.

Tori drops her body low, ducks under Uke's right arm in a continuous motion by pulling back the right foot and taking a circular step behind Uke with her right foot. Tori takes a position so that Uke's left hip touches her chest and abdomen, bends her knees and with her right arm encircles Uke's waist from behind to front, places her left hand on Uke's left lower abdomen (fingers upwards), firmly pulls Uke's body with both arms towards herself, Uke's left side remaining firmly against Tori's abdomen and chest. (This is Uranage form). Uke following these motions, brings her right foot close to her left foot and with feet together, stands straight. Tori, after pulling Uke towards her, arches her body backwards as she stretches her knees. Then she hugs Uke and pulls her up high to immobilize her freedom of movement.

When her body is lifted and tilted towards Tori, Uke brings both her hands high up, stretching the arms sufficiently with palms facing each other, her body in a straight line. Uke thus lifted up and immobilized, stretches her body thoroughly, then claps her hands, a sign of submission. Tori gently lowers Uke. Uke's* feet open into FNP before they touch the mat.

Katate-dori (Single Hand Seizure from Side)

Position: Uke stands facing Shomen in her former position assuming FNP. Tori stands close to Uke's left side, also in FNP and facing the

Katate-age (Single Hand Raising)

Position: Both Uke and Tori walk towards the original position where they first bowed to each other at the beginning. The distance is approximately 2.4 meters (8 feet) between them and they face each other in FNP.

Movements: Both advance toward each other with speed and almost collide with each other. This technique teaches one how to use body movements and escape from an impending collision.

Both Uke and Tori (with right palm forward, arm straight, and fingers together) simultaneously raise their right hands from the sides up above the heads. They stand on their tiptoes, placing their weight on their toes, and prepare to advance forward. The bodies should be stretched sufficiently from the toes in straight line to the tips of the right hand fingers while maintaining a feeling of inner strength. Both then advance forward sliding the toes over the mat, first with gradual steps, then gradually increasing speed with small steps. Tori and Uke start with the right foot.

After taking three or four steps, both Uke and Tori seem to almost collide with each other. Just before collision, when both are very close to each other, toes of their right feet are close.

At this time, Uke attempting to thrust through Tori, pushes forward strongly. Tori at this instant and before Uke's movement, swiftly with her left foot as an axis pulls back her right foot and turns her body 90° to the right, thus avoiding a clash with Uke. (Tori's movement should be quick when turning her body to the right.) Uke's attempt to strike is foiled - Uke's own movement force her to take one big step forward with her right foot, her body turns slightly to the left and bends over, she becomes unbalanced to the right. At this time, Uke's back is facing Tori.

Tori then swiftly grasps Uke's right, outside elbow joint with right hand (thumb outside, palm facing forward, fingers pointed down, elbow bent and closely contacting Tori's body), places her left hand on Uke's left shoulder and pulls downward with her right hand and with her left hand pushes Uke's body down to the right and immobilizes her sufficiently. The upper portion of Uke's body should be bent approximately 45°. (Timing in turning the body and grasping Uke's right elbow is important and should be simultaneous.)

As Uke is immobilized to the right by Tori, she is in an awkward position and tries to regain her former position. At this time, if Tori releases her push on Uke towards the right, Uke feels that she has escaped from this immobilization and her body naturally tries to regain its natural position. Tori, utilizing this effort to recover, slides her left hand down to Uke's left elbow. Leaving her right hand as it is, raises Uke's right arm upwards and pushes it towards the left, pulling downward with her left hand, immobilizes Uke's body to the left sufficiently. (Tori must maintain her balance at the time of unbalancing Uke to the right or left.)

As Uke is strongly pushed to the left by Tori and is immobilized, she finds herself in an awkward position and tries to regain her balance. Tori utilizes this strength and, when Uke's body comes directly in front of her, pulls Uke's back close to her chest.

The above described movements, the bending of the upper portion of the body to both sides and back, were originated to exercise and to stretch the body's side muscles.

SANKYO (SET III)

Obi-tori (Belt Seizure)

side to the Shomen in FNP so that the distance between the two of them is approximately two feet.

Movements: Uke tries to grab Tori's Obi (belt) in the front with both hands.

Uke then pulling her right shoulder back slightly gathers strength in her right arm and with her palm still facing Tori and pushes Tori's left chest backwards.

Tori first tries to release her left hand by turning her left palm inward and by bending her left elbow and dropping her left shoulder slightly as she turns her right toes slightly to the right and opens her body to the right. At the same time, Uke (still grasping Tori's left wrist with her right hand) turns her left toes to the left and (following Tori's movements) opens her body the left. At this point they are shoulder to shoulder facing the Shomen. Both of them take one step toward the Shomen (Tori with her left foot and Uke with her right foot). Tori moves her left hand with her left foot twisting her body to the right. At the same time, Uke moves her right hand with her right foot and twists her body to the left. Therefore, when Tori starts to escape from Uke's grip and begins her turning, both Tori's and Uke's foot movements should be executed at almost the same time with Uke following Tori's movements.

As soon as Tori faces Uke, Tori pulls her own right hand up slantwise and stretches her left arm down slantwise to the left (thumb up).

Position: Both Tori and Uke return to the center of the performing area. Both stand facing each other in FNP with a distance of two feet between them. Tori's right side and Uke's left side faces the Shomen.

Movements: Uke raises her right hand high from behind, with her arm straight and fingers stretched and separated. With the feeling of gathering all the strength of the universe with these fingers, she attempts to strike Tori's chin from below.

Uke takes one big step backwards with her right foot and still facing Tori, as she steps back, she opens and raises her right hand from her rear with palm facing down and fingers separated. When her right hand is slightly above her head, Uke stretches all five fingers sufficiently and stops, gathers strength, and prepares to attack. Uke has to bear in mind that her fingers are extending in five lines throughout the earth and she is gathering all the power from the earth to attack.

Uke then gradually closes and lowers her right hand. When it reaches the position of her right hip, Uke clenches her hand into a firm fist (palm side up). This movement has to be carried out in a smooth unhurried motion striking Tori's chin upward from below. When Uke's right fist approaches her chin, Tori draws back her chin pulling her body backwards and avoids Uke's clenched fist.

Tori, with her elbows close to her sides, pushes Uke's right elbow downward with her left hand. Uke's upper body is strongly immobilized by Ude-Garami. Tori's* knees are slightly bent in defensive posture. Uke cannot resist Tori in any manner. She taps her side giving a signal of submission. The position of Tori's and Uke's feet at this time should be exactly the same as Mune-Oshi (45 degree angle to the line of performance). Tori returns Uke to normal position.

Uchi-oroshi (Direct Head Strike)

Position: Uke and Tori stand facing each other in FNP with a distance of two feet between them.

Movements: Uke attempts to strike Tori's head from the front with her right fist. (same feeling as explained in movement of Tsuki-Age when gathering strength from the universe into fist).

Uke begins to prepare to gather strength with her right hand by turning her hand, little finger side up and palm facing outwards, fingers stretched, brings this hand toward her left side. She gradually begins to open her fingers to an outstretched position. After separating her fingers and stretching them sufficiently, she raises her arm up in a big clockwise circle with her arm close to her body.

When her hand passes in front of her left shoulder, she turns her palm up and brings her hand above her head, straightens her arm and with strength in her fingers turns palm outward (towards her right). Uke gradually lowers her hand (palm down) as if to grasp everything in the universe in her hand. When her hand is stretched out to her right side, she begins to close her hand into a fist and lowers it to complete the circle.

When her fist reaches her right side, Uke bends her right elbow, raises her fist up towards her chest and slides it straight up passing the center of her face (palm facing her face and maintaining the strength in her fist). She then stretches this arm thoroughly and raises her right fist high over her head without changing the position of her palm.

Tori then brings her right hand across Uke's right shoulder (fingers straight, thumb inward), places the inside edge of her right forearm near the wrist on Uke's throat making her own right chest come in contact with Uke's back. Tori, raising her left heel with her balance on the right foot, assumes the position of Hadaka-Jime; i.e., moving her left foot one step behind her own right foot, and using both arms, pulls and unbalance Uke backwards, lowers her heel back onto the mat, shifts her weight on both feet and at the same time with her right arm chokes Uke, pulls her left arm backwards and also immobilizes Uke's left elbow. Tori's knees are slightly bent. Uke, thus immobilized, taps the right side of her body, a sign of submission. Tori brings her left foot close to her right foot. She releases the technique and returns Uke to a natural position.

«Note» The movements of Uke from the time she stretches her fingers and makes a circle, clenches her fist and brings it up over her head, should be a smooth, continuous movement without any hesitation but without speed. It should also contain great strength. When the clenched fist is high above, the body and spirit should be as one, and this is the time when the attack attitude should be at its peak.

Movements: Uke attempts to poke Tori's eyes with the tips of her middle and ring fingers.

Uke, thus pushed, following this motion in a bent defensive posture, turns her toes to the right, shifts her weight to her right foot (in order to pivot), describes a large arc on the mat with her left foot by turning to the right approximately 180°, ducks under Tori's right arm, and continues to turn her toes and body to the right until she faces in the direction of Tori. (Both are in a parallel position to the Shomen because of Uke's 180-degree turn.) Then Uke, who has her right foot slightly forward, pulls her right foot slightly back, maintains her balance in right defensive posture, and watches Tori's face.

By the time Uke has completed her motions and faced Tori, Tori is already prepared to attack Uke. Explicitly that means, Tori (in a defense posture undertaking the same motions that that Uke did at the beginning), opens the fingers of her left hand between the middle and ring fingers with her palm facing downward and ready at her side (belt high, bends her knees slightly, and advances forward with the left foot as her left fingertips attempt to poke Uke's eyes.

Tori, without releasing her strength which has pulled Uke to her left hip, hoists Uke up on her left hip in the same manner as Katate-Dori and Obi-Tori, Uke maintains her body posture which has straightened out and is gently hoisted upwards with her head down and feet up in a straight diagonal line.

She then sufficiently stretches her body and after a moment, taps Tori's back on the right side with her right hand and after a moment, taps Tori's back on the right side with right hand and gives a signal of submission. Tori slowly lowers Uke. Before the feet touch the ground, Uke will gradually move her feet apart in order to land in FNP.

This finishes the 15 techniques.

Finishing Movements

After the final Waza, Ryogan-Tsuki, is completed, both Uke and Tori return to their former position back to back, where they made their first standing bows. Simultaneously they face each other in fundamental natural posture, take one step backward (first right foot and then left foot) and stand with heels together and toes apart. Standing with their body straight, they express their mutual respect by making a standing bow to each other. Then facing the Shomen, they make a standing bow, and thus, Ju-no Kata comes to an end.

 ADVANCE AND RETREAT BODY MOVEMENT

When matched with an opponent during Randori, all endeavor should be made to take the opponent off guard. In order to achieve this, one should make all kinds of body movements, such as turning the body to the right or left or by making a big circle with the body, and thus lead the opponent into an unbalanced position. One should try to unbalance the opponent by advancing forward, retreating backwards, or moving from right to left, left to right. The ability to be able to fluctuate these advance and retreat body movements quickly and expertly in accordance with the opponent's state of mind will play an important role and greatly help the mastering of Randori and Kata. When matched with an opponent and moving together, the posture should always be correct and the whole body should be in perfect coordination, moving smoothly on both legs. In this movement there are two ways of walking, one the Tsugiashi, where one foot follows the other and second, when one foot steps forward and the other foot follows immediately about a foot's length behind the previous foot. The body balance should be on both legs. A continuation of this movement forward, backwards, and right to left, is called Tsugiashi. Be careful when the feet follow each other so that the body does not bounce up and down. Also when the right and left foot alternatively steps out, care should be taken so that the foot width is not too wide and the body does not move in a sideways motion from right to left. When taking big steps backward and forward, be sure to maintain body balance by always having the following-foot move quickly together with the body. When an opponent pushes forward, utilize this strength and retreat, when the opponent retreat, adapt to this and push. By pushing or unbalancing an opponent or making an offensive move by leading the opponent into a predicament or by changing the opponent's attack with a quick body movement, speedy Waza evolves. In this case the body must always maintain its balance.

In Women's Judo, quick and skillful Tai-Sabaki is considered as one of the most important points to achieve and highly useful in self-defense and daily life. The basis for Tai-Sabaki is included in the first section of the KODOKAN Woman's Self-Defense Methods. It is essential that these methods be practiced sufficiently, applied and utilized in the Randori and Kata of Judo.
